Extended IT-Solutions and Services across Europe

...your single source for multinational JD Edwards project services.

InOne – globally, local

InOne Europe was established in 2000 by putting together leading JD Edwards partners across Europe into a unique Pan-European business partnership, in direct response to clients request's for a one-stop choice for international projects in the JD Edwards system environments.

Drawing from our unique and specialized knowledge which began right at the start of JD Edwards entry into Europe back in 1989, and from over 400 projects that we have since completed in Europe, means that we have gained vast experience that in Europe gives InOne an unparalleled JD Edwards knowledge base that exceeds 2.000 man years of know how in dealing with the many challenges faced by clients from this type of project.

Our offering – your benefit

InOne supplies crucial, consistent IT support in dealing with the many differences between one country and another, whether your company is a large corporation or an SME. Multinational enterprises will recognize the many advantages and benefits that working with a single IT services provider across Europe can bring.

Key company values are the delivery of high quality solutions incorporating leading edge functionality from the JD Edwards software, delivered through a partnership approach with our customers, and backed by unrivalled implementation and consultancy experience.

Our strategy is to continually invest in the partnership with Oracle, to recruit and develop quality people; deliver a value-added implementation methodology and maintain strong service capabilities to ensure long-term relationships with our customers.

We focus on providing solutions and services to deliver competitive advantage, enabling our customers to conduct and adapt their businesses, to remain agile, competitive and effective, despite a background of constant market pressures of reduce costs, improve quality and deliver better service.

Extended IT Services across Europe

As a leading Pan-European services partner in Oracle JD Edwards EnterpriseOne and JD Edwards World, and with a presence in every major market across Europe, InOne is ideally placed to support both multi-national and local businesses with roll outs of this solution. InOne is completely and solely dedicated to supporting JD Edwards EnterpriseOne and JD Edwards World software using our profound knowledge of the products, the industries that we support and our project implementation methodologies.

European Roll Out – The Problem

When you decide to extend your JD Edwards ERP system to and across Europe, you still have to face local business and cultural differences from one country to the other in terms of accounting methods, fiscal reporting, taxation, language support and legal requirements.

To overcome these obstacles you often end up with a complex and time consuming business relationship with several companies and you are confronted with problems such as a variety of different contracts, inconsistent methods, different skill-levels of consultants and complex project management.

With the result of increasing costs and risks.

"We're very happy with the functional and technical support that we received from InOne in just 3 months our locations in 3 countries changed over in parallel to the new JD Edwards EnterpriseOne release"

Hanlie van Staden, Skandia project manager

European Roll Out – The Solution

However, meeting your expectations for an efficient roll out and a profitable solution is largely dependent on the consultants' ability to

- understand the diversity of local markets and cultures,
- align processes across borders and
- turn them into a profitable global solution.

An expertise difficult to identify in any single company until now.

With the largest number of experienced local consultants across Europe, InOne offers you an efficient European roll out with just one cont(r)act.

Managed Services

However, our services don't stop after Go-Live. With the broad experience gained during the process modelling and implementation, we offer Managed Services in terms of process refinement, SAR resolution and end-user Help Desk.
