

The - InOne Business Case

InOne is a 'Globally Local', JD Edwards services company dedicated to the successful implementation and support of the JD Edwards EnterpriseOne and JD Edwards World products, providing high quality, innovative business solutions and consulting services designed to help you reduce your costs, increase productivity, and improve your bottom line.

In addition to providing a wide range of application software offerings that are critical to your business' success, we deliver the highest quality specialist consulting services available for the JD Edwards EnterpriseOne and JD Edwards World systems - right across Europe.

This extended presence ensures that ONE single professional services partner can understand your company's needs down to the local level in every individual country, a true one stop, one contract, one contact transparent service which typically gives you the client the following advantages:

- Removes the need to identify a local partner in each country, and negotiate each contract separately.
- Eliminates the requirement of project management, billing, and account's receivable in each country.
- Facilitates communication as the local partner works in the local language of each country.
- No need to acquire local knowledge regarding fiscal laws in each country. (Local partners have already applied these localisations for the software).
- Reduces costs as you pay the local consulting rates in each country and not a West European rate across all countries.
- Travel, hotel and transfers costs are kept to a minimum by using local experienced consultants.

All this is designed to help you save on costs and time when implementing your JD Edwards solution across Europe, and we know it works since, InOne has many years experience of overcoming the unique challenges that project's of this type can invariably produce.

Our business case is simple.

We bring you only the most talented, innovative, and experienced professionals to help you with one of the largest and most important systems projects your company may ever undertake. We will always charge you a fair price. Our company is efficient and well managed, and we don't have the multiple layers of internal project managers, account managers, or management overhead costs. - costs that larger companies have to recover somewhere.

The only billing you will ever receive from us will be for time actually spent on your project by a member of our team.
